

Designing tribunal spaces

How can architecture contribute to effective communication?

David Tait
Professor, Justice Research
University of Western Sydney

Landsgericht und Amtsgericht, Dusseldorf
Architect: Andreas Reichau

Overview

- Strengths and challenges for tribunals
- Messages conveyed by design of tribunal spaces
- How can design contribute to better tribunal processes?
- Creating safe environments for tribunal participants

Strengths of tribunals

- Cheap and accessible access to justice
- Dynamic and Innovative
- Variation between tribunals and panels
- Flexible people and spaces

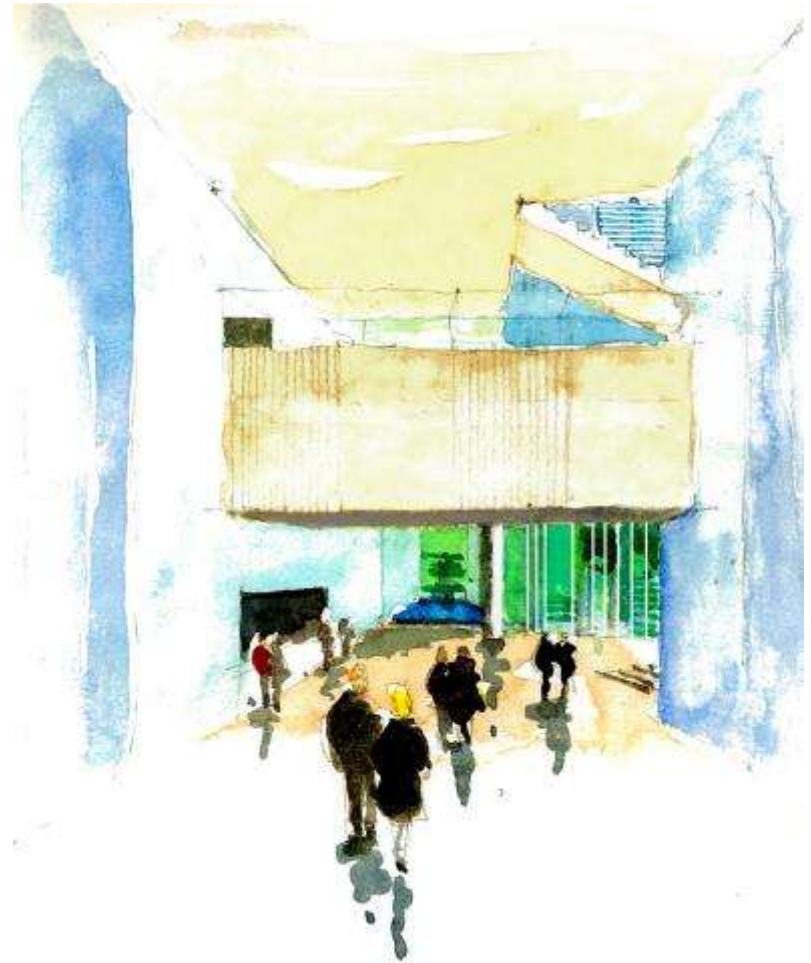

Palais de Justice, Pontoise

Henri Ciriani

Special challenges for tribunals

- Diversity
- Safety

Watercolour
John Hockings
From 2005 Court architecture tour

Diversity of hearings

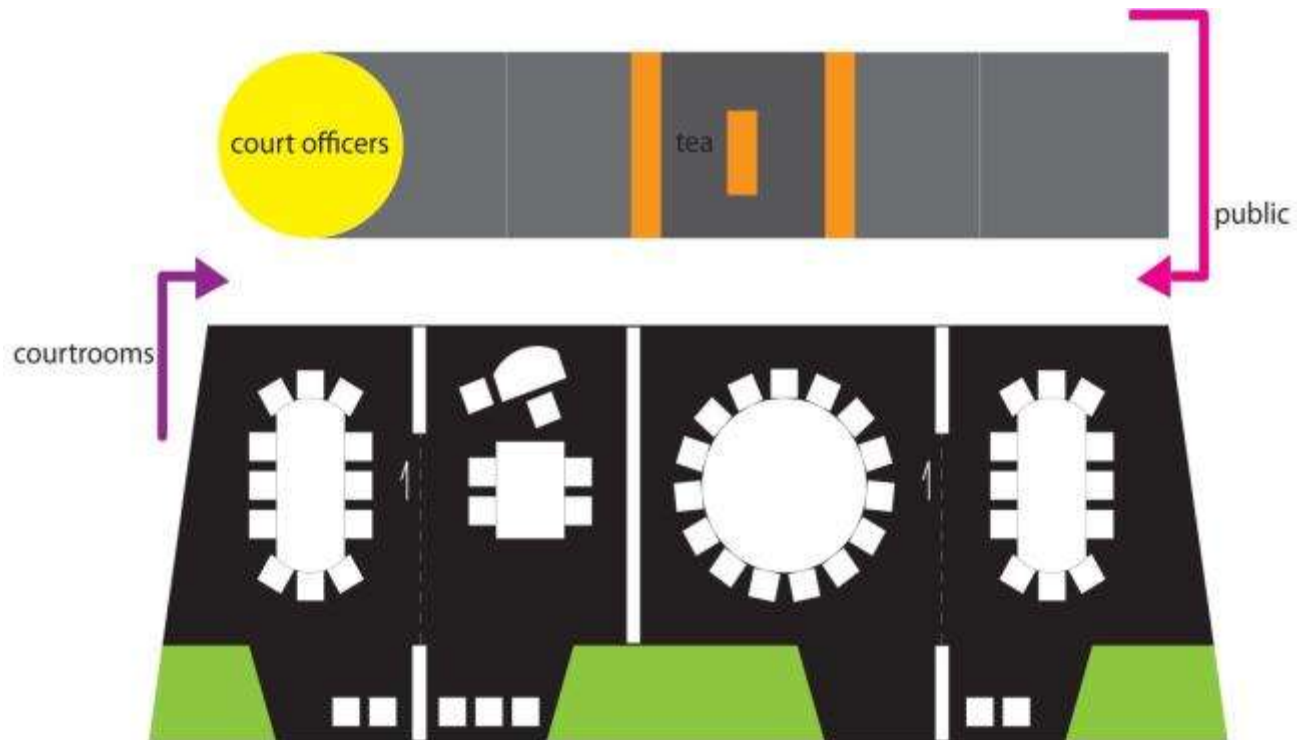

- Nature of hearing
- Complexity of issues
- Intensity of emotions
- Expectations
- Role of government

Palais de Justice, Paris
Guardianship hearing

Watercolour: Noelle Herrenschmidt

Diverse spaces

Grouped Rooms: Dual Access
Different Configurations
Ability to open up (ideas for Coffs Harbour courts)
Diane Jones, PTW Architects

Diverse populations

Tonga

A tapa cloth presented to the Manukau Family Court by a staff member

Source: Jan Doogue, Chief Judge, District Court of NZ

Diverse technologies

- Logistics of accessing up-to-date files
- Cluttered rooms
- Providing speedy decisions
- Tribunal in a box

ICTY courtroom, The Hague
Photograph: Alan Wilson

Safety issues

- Waiting areas – open, culturally appropriate
- Creating serene spaces
- Proximity and low symbolism environment
- Privacy in multi-use spaces
- Provides relief and access to nature

Open waiting places

Port Augusta Courthouse
Denis Harrison, DAIS

Serene setting for hearings

Familiengericht, Templehof-Kreuzberg, Berlin
Architect: Oswald Mathias Ungers
Photograph: Emma Rowden

Proximity and low symbolism environment

Collingwood Neighbourhood Justice Centre
Lyons

Photography: Graham Brawn

Privacy

New Port Augusta Courthouse - Denis Harrison of DAIS

Photography by PTW Architects

Relief and access to nature

Steiner Social therapy workshop,
Berlin-Brandenburg

How can better design improve tribunal processes?

- Strengthen transitions
- Create 'just distances'
- Provide relief- views
- Improve the waiting experience

Avignon, New courthouse

