On 1 July 2015, the Migration Review Tribunal, Refugee Review Tribunal and Social Security Appeals Tribunal amalgamated to form the Administrative Appeals Tribunal (AAT).

The AAT conducts independent merits review of administrative decisions made under more than 400 Commonwealth laws. The AAT can also review decisions made under Norfolk Island laws.

The AAT is comprised of a Principal Registry and the following divisions:

- Freedom of Information
- General
- Migration & Refugee (including the Immigration Assessment Authority)
- National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS)
- Security
- Social Services & Child Support
- Taxation & Commercial
- Veterans' Appeals

The most common types of decisions that the AAT reviews relate to:

- migration and refugee visas and visa-related decisions
- child support
- Commonwealth workers' compensation
- Family assistance, paid parental leave, social security and student assistance
- taxation
- veterans' entitlements

The AAT also reviews decisions relating to Australian citizenship, bankruptcy, civil aviation, corporations and financial services regulation, customs, freedom of information, the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS), passports and security assessments by the Australian Security Intelligence Organisation (ASIO).

PSR is responsible for reviewing and examining possible inappropriate practice by practitioners when they provide Medicare services or prescribe Government subsidised medicines under the PBS. PSR examines suspected cases of inappropriate practice which have been referred by the Secretary of DHS. One of the sanctions that can be imposed on a health practitioner is to disqualify them for providing Medicare or PBS Services. The Director and a PSR Committee (of peers) examines documentation and provides the health practitioner with an opportunity to be heard before making a decision. Health practitioners dissatisfied with the PSR decision can appeal to the Federal Court or Federal Magistrates Court.

NCAT commenced operating on 1 January 2014 replacing more than 20 of the state's existing tribunals and provides a single gateway for most tribunal services in NSW.

NCAT is comprised of a Principal Registry and four Divisions:

1. Administrative and Equal Opportunity
2. Consumer and Commercial
3. Guardianship
4. Occupational

Each division is headed by a Deputy President with experience relevant to the subject matter of that division. Each Deputy President is responsible for the day-to-day running of the division, including the allocation of members to hear matters.

Services provided by the following NSW tribunals have been consolidated into NCAT:

- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Practice Tribunal
- Aboriginal Land Councils Pecuniary Interest and Disciplinary Tribunal
- Administrative Decisions Tribunal
- Charity Referees
- Consumer, Trader and Tenancy Tribunal
- Dental Tribunal

Land Court procedures are covered by the Land Court Act 2000, the Land Court Rules 2000 and various practice directions. The Uniform Civil Procedure Rules 1999 may also apply where the Land Court Rules don't cover the field. The Land Court comprises a president and other members. Unlike judges, who have life tenure, members of the Land Court are appointed for 15 year terms. Judicial registrars may also be appointed as officers of the court to perform certain functions. Hearings in the Land Court are usually presided over by a single member sitting alone. The judicial registrar may also hear and decide certain matters, though he is responsible mainly for the court's alternative dispute resolution (ADR) processes, including preliminary conferences and court supervised mediations. The Land Court may sit anywhere in Queensland. Normally a case is heard in the district where the land that is the subject of the dispute is located. Sittings are held in Brisbane and, where appropriate, rural and regional areas of Queensland. The Land Court operates with as little formality as possible. The strict rules of evidence don't apply and the Land Court acts according to equity, good conscience and the substantial merits of the case. The land court encourages ADR and provides these services free of cost.

SACAT was established under the South Australian Civil and Administrative Tribunal Act 2013 ('the Act') and opened to the public on 30 March 2015. The objects and ethos of SACAT are:

- the best principles of public administration including independence in decision making, natural justice and procedural fairness, high quality and consistent decisions, and transparency and accountability
- accessibility
- fast processing and resolution of disputes – including through the use of alternative dispute resolution procedures wherever appropriate
- keeping costs to a minimum
- using straightforward language
- flexibility
- consultation with stakeholders.

The Tribunal consists of the President, a Supreme Court judge, the Deputy President, a District Court judge and other members, including legal practitioners, psychiatrists and other persons with relevant qualifications and/or experience.

SACAT exercises both original and review jurisdiction. The diverse jurisdiction of SACAT is managed across three Streams: Housing & Civil, Administrative & Disciplinary and Community Streams.

SACAT's Housing & Civil Stream hears and resolves a wide range of tenancy disputes relating to residential tenancies, residential parks and retirement villages. It is the busiest of SACAT's three Streams and accounts for approximately 70% of all applications received by the Tribunal.

The Community Stream hears applications under the Guardianship and Administration Act, the Advance Care Directives Act, the Consent to Medical Treatment and Palliative Care Act and the Mental Health Act. The proceedings in this Stream are not adversarial in nature but are rather in the nature of an inquiry into the circumstances of a person suffering from either a mental incapacity, a mental illness or impaired decision-making capacity.

The Administrative & Disciplinary Stream, at present, hears applications for the review of decisions made under the Freedom of Information Act, South Australian Housing Trust Act, Community Housing Providers (National Law) (South Australia) Act, Valuation of Land Act, Local Government Act, Real Property Act, Lobbyists Act, First Home and Housing Construction Grants Act and the Controlled Substances Act. The Tribunal's Internal Review jurisdiction, where SACAT reviews decisions made in its original jurisdiction, is currently also managed by the Administrative & Disciplinary Stream. Further jurisdictions are due to commence in this Stream in the near future. These include the Firearms Act, the Housing Improvement Act, the Children and Young People (Safety) Act and the Child Safety (Prohibited Persons) Act.

These range from reviews of multi-million dollar tax judgments and dog destruction orders to disciplinary proceedings, guardianship questions and town planning and compensation issues. SAT receives its power to hear matters from a large number of different pieces of legislation – such as the Guardianship and Administration Act 1990, or the Planning and Development Act 2005. Before SAT was established, these were heard by many different government bodies, and SAT was established to make the legal process more efficient, flexible, and informal for parties. SAT's approach is informal, flexible and transparent. SAT: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • aims to make the correct or preferable decision based on the merits of each application; • is not a court and, therefore, strict rules of evidence do not apply; • encourages the resolution of disputes through mediation; • allows parties to be represented by a lawyer, a person with relevant experience or by themselves; • holds hearings in public in most cases; and • provides reasons for all decisions and publishes most decisions on its website. SAT's objectives are set out in the State Administrative Tribunal Act 2004. The main objectives of SAT in dealing with matters within its jurisdiction are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • To achieve the resolution of questions, complaints or disputes, and make or review decisions, fairly and according to the substantial merits of the case; • To act as speedily and with as little formality and technicality as is practicable, and minimise the costs to parties; and • To make appropriate use of the knowledge and experience of SAT members.
